Dr. Carl Farman Rites Observed Monday Afternoon

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the chapel of Hocking and Williams, San Jose, for Dr. Carl E. Farman, 62, retired Campbell dentist, who died suddenly at 7 o'clock Saturday morning after suffering ill health for two years as a result of a hit-run auto accident on October 17, 1930. The Rev. J. H. Bennett officiated at the services.

A native of San Francisco, Dr. Farman practiced dentistry in San Jose for many years as the manager of a chain dentistry system, after which he established a private practice in Campbell in 1928.

Surviving Dr. Farman are his wife, Mrs. Elin C. Farman, three daughters, a son, and a grandson. The daughters are Miss Rowena Farman, local grammar school domestic science teacher and cafeteria manager; Miss Elin T. Farman, a graduate nurse; and Miss Ruth Farman, local high school student. The son is Carl Farman Jr. of San Francisco, and the grandson, Carl E. Farman III, of San Francisco. A brother, Arthur Farman of Oakland, also survives.

Dr. Farman's death was ascribed to complications arising from a blow which he received in the head two years ago, from a bolt of wood which flew from the truck with which his automobile collided. He never fully recovered from the shock of the blow, according to his family. The identity of the driver of the truck, which failed to stop, has never been learned.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL CELEBRATES TODAY WITH YULE PARTY

A Christmas party, under the auspices of the grammar school P. T. A., was held at the Campbell Union grammar school auditorium this afternoon.

Music was furnished by the school orchestra, directed by A. A. Thielke.

Included on the program were: a Christmas story given by pupils of the fifth and sixth grades, led by Mrs. Bernice Saveker; Christmas carols by the eighth grade, directed by Mrs. Ruth Stuart; a reading by Geraldine Jurras; dances, planned by Ruth Adele Roberts; a kinderband, under Mrs. Emma Wilson; reading, fourth grade, trained by Mrs. Mabel Davidson, with Donald Rice as reader; and selections by a harmonica band composed of Gilbert Golladay and Mike Novokovich.

CATHOLIC CHURCH SCHEDULES MUSIC FOR CHRISTMAS

Christmas will be observed in the St. Lucy's Catholic church next Sunday morning with special music, furnished by Professor Joseph Halamicek. Mass will be said at 9 o'clock by the Rev. John McGarr.

Confession will be heard from 4 to 5:30 p. m. The catechism class will be discontinued Saturday and resumed on December 31st.

Charles Whitman has been confined to his home with illness during the past few days.

Rebekahs Bring Food For Needy

Food for the needy residents of Campbell was brought to the regular Tuesday night meeting of the Ada Rebekah lodge, to be turned over to Mrs. W. I. Merrill, chairman of the local relief council.

The regular business meeting of the evening, presided over by Miss Lois Rice, noble grand, was followed by a social hour. At this time the members and their guests played Dutch whist. Later in the evening, the committee, Mrs. T. A. Robinson, Mrs. Frank Coupland, and Miss Clara Rice, served sandwiches and coffee.

New officers of the lodge will be installed, with impressive ceremonies, at the next regular meeting to be held Jan. 3.

Church Classes Present Holiday Plays, Pictures

The Christmas spirit was gay in the Congregational church Sunday night, as parents and friends of the Sunday school members assembled to enjoy a program presented by the young people.

Appreciative applause was given a playlet put on by Miss Bertha Bollinger's class, since the youthful actors showed a real talent for drama and humor. In the cast were Marian Carter, a little girl; Margaret Tanner, a little boy; Dorothy Penhall, the Christmas sprite; Jeanette Abbott, Mistletoe; and Jewell Abbott, Holly.

Another playlet, presented by Miss Dora Finnemore's class, was charming. Characters were Jean Carter, Santa Claus; Marian Carter, Mrs. Santa Claus; Lillian Bohnett, a little boy; Elaine Jeffers, a little girl; and Mary Johnson and Katherine Park, Brownies.

Colored slides of well-loved Christmas pictures were displayed on the screen by the Rev. J. H. Bennett during the interim between the two plays. At the same time appropriate Christmas carols were sung by members of the choir.

Union Dist. Children Entertain With Christmas Program

Parents and friends of the Union district school children were entertained Friday by a Christmas party given at the school.

"Christmas in Many Lands" was depicted by the students, who accompanied their dramatization by some well-done chorus singing.

After the entertainment Santa Claus, aided by the Home and School club, surprised the children with a Christmas party, which included a lighted tree and many gifts.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Tonkin, assisted by club members.

Among those taking part in the school entertainment were Eleanor Faria, Dorothy Sartain, Patsy Henley, Clovis Mirassou, Ambrose Mirassou, Vincent Restovich, Minnie Cali, Helen Rodericks, Vivian Cushman, Barbara Howes, Leonard Fero, John Restovich, Charles Howes, Nadine Mirassou, Gloria

Mrs. Herold Morton Entertains Women Of Service Club

Mrs. Herold Morton, assisted by Mrs. William Lloyd, Mrs. Richard Saveker, Mrs. E. Russell Kennedy, entertained members of the Young Women's Service club at her home Wednesday.

Mrs. Freeman Howes presided over a short business meeting, appointing a new nominating committee consisting of Mrs. William Lloyd, Mrs. R. E. Stubbe, and Mrs. Dan Clark.

The members brought to the meeting sheets and pillow cases which they had made for the Red Cross relief work, which is locally directed by Mrs. W. I. Merrill.

More than a dozen Christmas boxes for needy families were packed by the women at the meeting yesterday.

After the business meeting a social hour made the afternoon a pleasant one. In the late afternoon guests were seated at two long tables and one smaller one, and served plum pudding, salted almonds, and coffee.

A holiday atmosphere pervaded the Morton home. Toyon berries and Oregon grapes effectively contrasted with the green linen table covers graced by tall red candles in silver candlesticks. Dainty favors, of cellophane covered, ribbon-tied, candied orange cups filled with nuts and cookies, stood at each guest's place.

Mrs. M. Gartner Services Friday

Mrs. Minnie Gartner, 58, a resident of Campbell for the past 8 years, died at the county hospital Tuesday morning after a lingering illness.

Funeral services will be conducted Friday morning at 10 o'clock from the Melvin chapel in Los Gatos by the Los Gatos Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Gartner was a member. Interment will be in the Los Gatos cemetery.

A native of Oklahoma, Mrs. Gartner lived 45 years in Denver, before moving to Campbell. She was a member of the Women of Woodcraft and Eastern Star lodges.

Surviving are four sons, William Arthur McKeon, of Washington, D. C., P. A. McKeon, of San Francisco, Nathan G. Gartner and Joseph Gartner, of Campbell, and a daughter, Mrs. Herman Rice, of Campbell.

Cushman, Charlotte Cushman, Edna Parks, Pauline Cushman, Kenneth and Richard Todd, Richard Perry, Junior Daly, Alice Scott, Yvonne Mirassou, James Parks, Charles Crain, Jack Cushman, Robert Tonkin, Billy Parks, Phyllis Cushman, Earl Sartain, Lupe Bellardes, Robert Arnold, and Glenn Caldwell, who impersonated Santa Claus.

Poor Children Will Feast Friday

Because of the leadership of A. A. Thielke, director of music in Campbell schools, Al Bulmore, local merchant, and Raymond R. Bishop, president of the Community Welfare league, the needy children of Campbell will be served a turkey dinner Friday noon at the teachers' room of the Campbell grammar school.

Donations from teachers and citizens of the town has made the feast possible. Miss Rowena Farman will have charge of the dinner.

Undernourished children of the school have been served more than 1500 meals during this fall, under the auspices of the P. T. A., and its president, Mrs. Harry Rediker, and a committee including Mrs. Warren Van Every, Mrs. J. B. Collins, and Mrs. W. I. Merrill.

Meals were first served last year, and the community noted with approval the improved condition of the children. Funds from the Campbell Relief society and the P. T. A. and private donations support the project.

Real Christmas Spirit Displayed In Club Program

Inspiration and beauty were the results of the Christmas program of the Country Woman's club presented at the regular meeting Monday by the committee, headed by Mrs. Bertha H. Jackson, Mrs. H. M. Shadle, Mrs. Horace Person and Mrs. Ira A. Beal.

The real spirit of Christmas giving was exemplified when each member brought to the meeting a jar of jelly, wrapped in holiday paper, to be used in Christmas boxes for the needy.

Little Miss Elaine Jeffers presented a piano solo for the entertainment of the club members, after which Christmas songs were sung by pupils of Mrs. Jackson.

Mrs. Horace Person talked on "Christmas Music." Mrs. W. I. Merrill described the "Spirit of Christmas." "The Madonna and the Christ Child in Art" was the topic of Mrs. Ira Beal.

Everyone joined in the singing of Christmas carols which were led by Mrs. H. M. Shadle and Mrs. Ralph Hyde. Famous Christmas songs, played on the phonograph, added to the musical atmosphere.

As a lovely climax, each member lighted a small taper from a larger candle at the head of the room and joined a procession marching around the room and singing "Silent Night."

Grange Members Will Turn Stately For Colonial Party

Colonial costumes will be in order at the meeting of the Orchard City grange next Tuesday night. After the regular meeting Mrs. Jessie McChesney will have charge of a social program, which is to take the form of a Colonial Christmas party.

All members and their guests are urged to appear in Colonial garb. Santa Claus may be there to greet them.

Mrs. Fawcett Laid To Rest This Afternoon

Relatives and friends were saddened this week by the death of Mrs. Myra Jane Fawcett, who passed peacefully away Tuesday noon at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Smith.

Mrs. Fawcett had been in poor health for the past year, and had failed rapidly during the past several weeks.

Funeral services, to which friends were invited, were held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the chapel of Hocking and Williams in San Jose, and interment made in the Los Gatos cemetery. Rev. J. H. Bennett officiated, and music was supplied by Mrs. G. S. Robson, Miss Muriel Crothers, Harold Cramer, and Dr. W. I. Merrill, with Clarence Robinson at the organ. Pall bearers were Walter Stray, George Robson, Carl Field, Roy Archibald, Dr. W. I. Merrill, and Harold Cramer.

Myra Jane Fuller was born at Waterbury, Vermont, Oct. 1, 1854, being 78 years of age at the time of her death. When she was one year old she moved with her parents to Minneapolis, Minn., where the family resided for four years. From there, they moved to a farm in Linden township, near Clearwater, Minn., where she lived until her marriage on Dec. 4, 1872, to Christopher T. Fawcett.

Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett maintained nearly continuous residence in St. Cloud, Minn., where three children were born to them, James Ethelbert Fawcett, deceased; Maybell Louise Knappen, deceased, and Edna Olive Smith, until 1905, when they moved to Bismark, N. D. They came to California in 1912, and except for a few years spent in a sojourn at Bismark, have resided here ever since.

Mrs. Fawcett was a charter member of the Granite chapter, Eastern Star, at St. Cloud, and was a member of the second graduating class of the state normal school in that city. Until a year ago she was identified with church affairs wherever she lived, and spent her life looking after her loved and loving family, the surviving members of which are her husband, Christopher T. Fawcett; her daughter, Mrs. H. C. Smith; her granddaughter, Wilma F. Smith, and her grandsons, James F. and Richard H. Knappen.

MRS. F. BOHNETT GIVES DESSERT BRIDGE PARTY

Mrs. Floyd Bohnett entertained a group of friends at a dessert bridge party at her home on north Union avenue recently. After the delicious refreshments, three tables of bridge were in progress during the remainder of the evening.

Mrs. Catherine Gullick received a lovely gift from the hostess in honor of her birthday. Prize winners were Mrs. Lillian Ohlen, first; Mrs. Hattie Gardner, second; Mrs. Virginia Young third; and Mrs. Mabel Young, consolation.

Those present besides the above mentioned were Mrs. Elfreda Anderson, Mrs. Ellen Lanphear, Mrs. Marion Margeson, Mrs. Julius Bachman, Mrs. Wilmay Lea, and Mrs. Merle Knappen.

Current Comment

Well, folks, we've got a real kick to register this week: For a considerable period of time the California theater advertised in glowing terms and with plenty of "pre-view" shots their recent picture, "If I Had A Million." It looked good, no mistake. Maybe you saw it. Anyway, it was about an eccentric millionaire who, on what he supposed was his deathbed, employed novel means to distribute a fortune of ten million dollars to people he had never seen, and the action was built around the recipients of the millions.

Among them was a lady of the streets. The "pre-view" shots had her in a snappy chatter with the millionaire, who was delivering the money in person. The film as shown was particularly poor at this stage because the conservation had evidently been cut.

And if that wasn't enough to infuriate a patron, one of the new-made millionaires was missing from the picture altogether. He was the condemned murderer whose possibilities for drama exceeded those of any other character. He was "cut," and the funny thing about it was that San Jose dailies had not been notified to that effect, and when they ran on their amusement pages the hoey that goes with the advertising, this same young gentleman was mentioned among the others.

Now, why were these particular bits cut from the picture which, to begin with could have interested none but the adult mind, and who possesses the tremendous gall to presume to dictate to these same adult minds what they shall and shall not see? That, ladies and gentlemen, is the question—rather the questions—before the house.

It is whispered about, probably on fairly good authority, that in San Jose there functions a local board of review who take it upon themselves to see all the pictures before the general public gets to view them, and cut out anything that offends their sensitive nostrils, regardless of the fact that most of us feel competent to ourselves segregate the good from the bad. We are not children, and it does not please us to be treated as such.

There is still another angle to the deal: One sees the preview, on which the theater counts to sell its coming attraction, which invariably contain some of the high spots of the production. One is pleased with these "shots" and one decides, on the strength of them, to see the picture. In the meantime, the board of review gets busy, and when the cash customer lays down his money he is apt to see, instead of the promised whales, nothing but a dozen or so spoiled ersters.

Be it fully understood that we refer not only to the California, but to all the first run houses in San Jose. And what we want to know is: How long are the cash custo-

RALPH H. HYDE

THE FARMERS CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor

Wealthy customers, strange as it seems, are poor customers, judged from the farmer's standpoint.

And customers with small incomes are the best!

Turning the spotlight on this seemingly paradoxical situation, the California Prune and Apricot Growers association has found that

The man earning $1,000 per year or less spends $33.50 for food out of every hundred.

The man whose income ranges from $3,000 to $5,000 annually spends only $14.80 out of each $100 for foodstuffs.

And the millionaire, with an income ranging from $500,000 per year upwards, expends only 20 cts. out of each hundred dollars to supply his table!

The analysis furnishes an interesting commentary on the vital effect of the distribution of wealth in the United States—and through out the world, for that matter—on farm markets.

While the man of wealth spends more, as an individual, for the food that supplies his family, the greater his wealth the less the return to the farmer. In other words, the same wealth distributed between a dozen families would bring approximately twelve times the demand for farm produce, or at least ten times as much, allowing for the wealthy man's little luxuries.

Concentration of national wealth in a comparatively few hands was one of the tendencies of the war and post-war boom periods. On the contrary, the present economic upheaval has undoubtedly taken a heavy toll in the millionaire and near-millionaire class.

The "important money" men, when the debacle is over, will probably have dwindled to a mere fraction of their former number. Where this money will go, whether it will ultimately return to the pocket-books of the men of small incomes, or whether a new crop of millionaires will come into being with the swing back to normal conditions, is a problem for the economists.

But if the depression serves, to some extent, to lessen the concentration of national wealth, it will at least be of benefit to American agriculture—hard as may be on the ex-millionaires.

The full sweep of the depression, as it affects agriculture, is graphically illustrated in reports just released by the federal government.

In 1930, the government tables show, there were 6,520,000 people unemployed in the United States.

This figure increased to 8,600,000 in 1931.

And this year the unemployed army is estimated at 11,800,000.

With nearly 12,000,000 people out of work and estimating four dependents too each, the analysis indicates a total of 48,000,000 people affected directly by the unemployment situation—nearly half the population of the country. Certainly these people are out of the buying picture—save for the bare necessities of life.

To aggravate the situation, the buying power of those still employed has been greatly reduced, due to falling wage scales.

Certainly, if the farmer comes through this period successfully, nothing the future holds should worry him greatly.

College Official Gives Value of Sale Of Christmas Seals

Residents of Campbell, with the Sunnyholme Preventorium and Santa Clara county sanatorium but a short distance away, appreciate the importance of preventative measures in the treatment of tuberculosis. Dr. J. C. Elder, chairman of the Christmas seal of the Santa Clara county Tuberculosis association, declared yesterday.

And yet many are not aware of the fact that the establishment of these institutions, which have saved the lives of hundreds of Santa Clara county children and adults are the direct results of the years of educational work of the Tuberculosis association. He pointed to the statement of Mrs. Francis H. Mead, third vice-president of the State Tuberculosis association, with which the county association is affiliated.

"Prevention is one of the big guns in the fight against tuberculosis," Mrs. Mead said. "And coupled with this is the building of a defense so the disease can be stopped in its earlier stages. "This phase can be divided into three measures: preventative, curative and educational. Sanatoria and hospitals for the treatment of the disease are the most important curative methods.

"The preventative measures are

BOOKS

Broome Stages, by Clemence Dane.

Off and on the stage dash members of a "royal family" of English actors—falling in love as madly, hating as cruelly, and behaving as theatrically in real life as they do behind the footlights.

This story concerns the family life of the Broomes who won the adoration of the followers of the English stage for two centuries.

Richard Broome the first, fell, quieted by accident, on to an English stage in 1715 while the immortal "Midsummer Night's Dream" was in progress. His descendants, although they entered by the stage door, inherited their father's ability.

As actors they were matinee idols. As stage managers they became millionaires. As women they were famous beauties. A Broome could not evade the center of the stage.

The book describes the life of the Broome family in a very entertaining fashion. Amusing in incident, dramatic in its portrayal of human emotions, the history of "Broome Stages" holds its readers' interest until the face of Richard Broome, the last, is flashed across the silver screen in the year 1930. Undertow, by A. Hamilton Gibbs.

They are as follows: The need of an annual physical examination, plenty of fresh air, the value of good food and proper care of the body, and the danger of careless spitting, sneezing and coughing.

Philip fell in love with the first girl who was nice to him. Conditions were ripe for his experience. He'd lived a solitary existence as schoolmaster for twelve years and he was tired of it. A black shingled feminine head atop a graceful feminine body was too much for him.

When he recovered he found himself engaged to be married. The shock was too great. Philip took to the dark woods of France where he discovered a new kind of girl and a richer kind of love.

The story of Philip's experiences is detailed in Gibb's usual Eng-
